He showed it to be an act of faith rather than an intellectual statement.

Women's Woes.

Norway Women are Finding Relief at Last

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. P. Walker, Cottage St., Norway, Me., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and must acknowledge that I have been greatly benefited. While my case was in no way serious, I was in misery all the time. The symptoms pointed to a severe kidney disorder. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I decided to try them and procured a box from Stone's drug store. In a short time after commencing their use, I felt much better and as I continued taking them I steadily improved. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as an excellent remedy for kidney disease."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-McBurr Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Written for the Advertiser.
Good-bye Winter.

It's good-bye winter bleak and cold
Your dreary reign is o'er;
You cannot here abide
We're to have the joys in store.

Yet mingled in the flight we hear
The opening of the spring,
And the new born songsters
Which comes to every thing.

We hear the brood, let's running
From mountain to the plain,
And the ripples seem to murmur,
"Spring is with us once again."

The birds with sweetest carol,
Mingle in the happy hour,
With sunshine, blossoms, everywhere,
They bring to us a prayer.

CHARLES C. LOWELL.

In Summertime.

Written for the Advertiser.

I know a place where fragrant pine trees wave
Their plumes to the feathered songsters,
High,
Where strains unchecked, and cadence of the breeze,
Blend in harmonious song to earth and sky,
Where the purple thistle, and wild orchid bloom.

Grace, beauty, and air with beauty's fragrance rare,
Blow from the hills of green, around,
Shout out awhile, earth's erst-while fret and care.

And, gentle as the whisper of a mother's
Voice, it wafts along the soft, south breeze,
I know,
Fanned away are the remnants of despair,
The chilling breath of ice and frost and snow.

Heaven, in good time gives back our own again,
Though taken for awhile our trust to prove,
So, again, with sunny days is seen,
With every trace of winter's chill removed.

Oh, soft and sweet the music of the air,
Come the high pulse-beats of our earth and sky,
And warbler's throats attune to praise and prayer,
Bless dreamer, or teller as he wanders by.

Dandruff Easily Cured.

Parisian Sage is a most pleasant, daintily perfumed hair dressing, and besides curing dandruff, your dangles, will return your money if it fails to stop falling hair or itching of the scalp.

It will make hair grow, and women who desire soft, beautiful and luxuriant hair can have it in two weeks by using this famous, quick acting preparation. It is not sticky or greasy. 10c12

One of the members of the Universalist church, on returning from a recent visit to Boston, brought a hymn tablet and presented it to the church, which not only adds to the attractiveness of the pretty audience room but aids the members of the congregation in finding the psalm and hymn for the service.

Last Sunday was observed as Palm Sunday at the Universalist church with special sermon and music, and the evening service was given to the same subject. Isaac W. Andrews.

Isaac W. Andrews died of grippe, at his home in South Woodstock, Friday morning at about 8 o'clock, March 15.

Mr. Andrews was born in South Woodstock 77 years ago, and had always lived there. He was the head of the firm of I. W. Andrews & Sons, manufacturers of caskets, and engaged in the undertaking business. He had been in this business many years, from boyhood and was one of the few men who are a blessing to their native town by doing a successful business at home all the days of his life, and leaving the business in the good hands of his sons, to be continued. Isaac W. Andrews' father, Ziba, carried on the business before him, and he was well content to follow the business his father did. Their mill was first built in 1826.

He was not only an enterprising and successful business man, but he was a cheerful and happy man—one who was a pleasant companion, one who enjoyed his vacations and his fishing trips. For more than thirty years he annually or oftener, visited the Rangley lakes, and shared his catches with his friends.

He was the son of Ziba and Thankful Andrews, and was educated in the common schools of Woodstock. He was a strong Republican, though he never held public office. He belonged to no societies or clubs. His religious creed was peace and good will to all men.

Fifty years ago he married Elvira W. Bryant. At the time of his death she was very low and not expected to survive her husband but a short time. His two sons, Frank R. Andrews and Alvin W. Andrews, have been associated in business with him. A daughter, Mrs. A. J. Curtis died in Dorchester, Mass., fourteen years ago. Mr. Andrews was one of a family of nine brothers and sisters.

The funeral was from his residence, Sunday, March 20, at 1 o'clock. Rev. Seth Benson and Elder Ford were the attending clergymen.

He was a kind friend and neighbor and will be greatly missed. He leaves a wife whose care and devotion was untiring during his long illness, a brother and sister and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held in the M. E. church at one o'clock Thursday afternoon, Rev. H. H. Richardson, officiating. The male quartette sang "Guard and Guide Me" and "Farewell." The flowers were very beautiful, among the floral pieces being a pillow inscribed with the word "Farewell," a wreath from Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Elliott, pieces from the nieces and nephews, from Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lord and also from the Ladies' circle. Interment was six miles away in a private cemetery, where the two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, called in their early manhood, rest side by side.

Newsy Letter from Lynn, Mass.

DEAR FRED: I'm not dead yet, and am a bit away from it, although you haven't heard from me for some time. I've been in Lynn since the first of December, being a sort of assistant assistant to the first assistant of something or rather in the editorial department. Things look good, and I am going to stick here until I get the book.

Have met a lot of Norway people here, especially Sid Sanborn. He is in bad shape, working a few hours a day and squandering his money. You would think he was the same fellow who years ago used to present such a front in the Boal's House. It would be a good thing if someone would get him back in Norway, but Bill Boynton told me the other day he wouldn't stay there more than three or four weeks.

A former Norway man got pinched in a raid on a poker joint last Saturday night, and with eight other men was fined $15. Saw Tarr the other day. He looks as if he was up against it, but he is working in John Callahan is the same old John. I saw him recently and he wanted to be remembered to you.

See by the papers that a lot of people have been cashing in at Norway. Send me a town report and let me see some of them. Of course, I know that Elder Rideout had gone—and a good man he was, too.

How's the fish at Round Pond? Doing much there? Heard you had been in the hospital. What for, and are you all right now? I don't seem to get along good at all, and doctors at the hospital say she will have to be operated on again. Case of adhesion where she was cut open before, and some of the stitches seem to be pulling out. Had an X-ray put on her in Boston two weeks ago, after a doctor had said he thought she had a tumor or cancer, but it showed nothing but the old wound pulled apart.

I'm about discouraged trying to get her well but I suppose it can't be helped.

Chucky Young's brother is a compositor on the Item. Inspection of Co. D.

The State Inspection of Company D, Second Regiment Infantry, N. G. S. M., was held at the Opera House, Friday evening, by Inspector Brigadier General James L. Moriarty.

Inspection began at 7.45 and continued till 9.40. The company made a fine appearance and Inspector Moriarty spoke very highly in their favor and complimented the company on the manner in which they drilled, their military courtesy and their general appearance.

Each command from the officers was obeyed with a snap, which is the essential of good military discipline; the marching movements were another good feature and were well executed.

The galleries of the Opera House were open free to the public and there was a good number who watched the inspection. The opportunity of seeing the inspection. The United States inspection will be held Friday evening, April 15th, by a U. S. Army officer.

Make Your Purchases at Home.

William Allen White of the Emporia Gazette preaches editorially on "Buying at Home," and although his discourse was calculated for readers out in Kansas, it will fit just as well down here in Maine, and we copy it bodily because it is so good. It is a good one, and effectively than most of us country editors.

"The man who buys his goods of a mail order house, and expects his neighbors in Emporia to buy goods of the same kind, is a man who is economically a leech. He is sucking industrial blood out of the town and gives none back. He sends his profits out of town like a Chinaman, and has no more right to be a leech in the community than a foreigner."

"We are all neighbors industrially in this town, and the man who sends away for his goods is not one of us. He is of another industrial system, and he has no more support in Emporia. The fact that this is economically wrong is recognized by the mail order houses themselves."

"They protect their customers as thieves by offering to keep them from knowing where the mail order comes from. The mail order houses have no 'tags' on their goods. They say in their catalogues that none of their goods are marked and that no one knows where they were made. If it is proper to hide the place of purchase of an article it is wrong to buy the article at that place. Only the man who steals is ashamed to say where he got anything."

"There is such a thing as 'tainted' furniture, 'tainted' dry goods and 'tainted' groceries. All of such that are not bought at home, of men who befriend you, of men whom you owe a living, are 'tainted' because they come unfairly."

"It is time to change and get together. It is time to begin to reform ourselves and not our neighbors, by buying everything at home whether the neighbors do or not. And the time to begin to reform is the time to do it for all of us to turn over a new leaf."

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Need Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brookfield, Mo.—"Two years ago I was unable to do any kind of work and only weighed 118 pounds. My trouble dates back to the time when the women may expect nature to bring on them the Change of Life. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it made me feel much better, and I have continued its use. I am very grateful to you for the good medicine."

Now enjoying Mrs. SARAH LOUISBON, 414 S. Livingston Street, Brookfield, Mo.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—irregularity, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

Supreme Judicial Court.

March Term, 1910.

Thursday there were several hearings before the court. In the three flogage cases of Randall F. Mayberry, Frederick M. Gown and Oscar Bradford against the Mechanic Falls Electric Light Co., the reports of the commissioners were accepted and judgment ordered for the plaintiffs. Mayberry was awarded $360 in gross, Gown, $200 and Bradford $250.

In the James-Albany school case, the court held under advisement since last week, judgment was rendered for the town. In announcing his decision, the court said he hoped the suit might be taken to the law court to have settled some questions which had been raised by the decision, but the plaintiff's counsel said his client was not able to be to that expense, and no appeal would be taken.

In the Penley Street Railway case, which was argued by order of the presiding justice, exceptions have been filed and allowed and action has been marked "Law."

The court denied the motion of Sullivan & Daley of Berlin, N. H., to bring forward an action against George E. Leighton and William Jewell et al., which had been dismissed for want of prosecution at the March term, 1909, under a then recent rule of the full court, to clear the dock of long standing cases, where nothing was being done with them from term to term.

Matthew McCarthy, Esq. of Rumford has been appointed by the court as bail commissioner.

The contested divorce case of Rinaldo L. Cook and Elizabeth A. Cummings was tried before the court. Mr. Cummings claimed that his wife had deserted him and had cruelly abused and ill-treated him. This she denied.

They had two sons and a daughter. The boys were 13 and 12 years of age. The girl is younger. Mr. Cummings claimed in his testimony that his wife had made his life uncomfortable and that he hadn't been used right. That his expenses were so great he had to leave home and go to a farm beyond West Paris and his wife stayed at dinner there she wouldn't go to the farm unless she had a team that she could use when she wanted to. He afterward called his wife into the stable office (he had a horseman and had a number of these animals) and asked her if she meant what she said.

She said she did, that he had horses and it was reasonable for her to have them. She said she had a horse for the children. Thereupon he picked up his movables and went to the farm and left his wife with the little girl—having taken the boys with him, and she returned to her father's at North Norway. Mrs. Cummings made a favorable impression while on the witness stand.

The court relied upon her statements that she had not given him sufficient cause for a divorce, and refused to grant it.

Eugene M. Dorey of Weld, from Harris J. Dorey of Paris, cruel treatment, child to the mother. James W. Wright of Norway, from Alice Cook of Somerville, Mass., for intoxication, children to the father.

Frank J. Cook of Norway from Lena M. Cook of Salem, Mass., desertion, children to the father. Albertine Bigelow from Philander T. Bigelow of Paris, cruel treatment and non-support.

G. H. Hill of Paris from Samuel P. Hill of Oxford, cruel treatment, children to mother. Irene M. Redon from James H. Redon, both of Paris, cruel treatment, children to mother.

It was expected that this last case would be contested as the parties came on the afternoon train with their witnesses for that purpose. Counsel finally adjusted some matters in controversy and no opposition was made. The plaintiff in her testimony stated that her husband at one time nearly tore all her clothes off her person one day in the door yard, in a fit of anger.

HARRISON.

The death of Harrison W. Smith occurred in the hospital early Wednesday morning, March 23th. Mr. Smith was born in Oxford, Dec. 25, 1840, and also lived in Pittsfield, working as a gardener and farmer. He enlisted in Co. E, 1st Maine Infantry, at Portland, May 4, 1861, and was mustered out Aug. 5, 1861. He again enlisted in Co. E, 10th Maine Infantry, Sept. 10, 1861, and served until May 8, 1862. He again enlisted in Co. 1, 2nd Maine Infantry, as sergeant and was finally discharged at Hilton's Head, S. C., May 21, 1866. He was admitted to the Home from Pittsfield, July 4, 1908. The remains were sent to Detroit for burial.

MAINE EXHIBIT—SHOWING ONLY GRAVENSTEIN APPLES AT 1909 EXPOSITION

Gravenstein Apples 72 cts. Each.

In a recent issue of The National Horticulturist Prof. J. C. Whitten, of the Missouri State Agricultural College, described American apples that sold in Germany for the extraordinary price of 72 cents each. Professor Whitten did not state the variety esteemed worthy of such tribute, and its identity has only recently been disclosed. The high-priced Gravenstein, a variety that is almost unknown in many parts of the American apple field, and which has received but little attention except in the New England states.

In the exhibit from Maine by F. T. True at the 1909 National exposition at Council Bluffs the Gravenstein held a conspicuous place, was instantly recognized by the judges and awarded first prize.

In the accompanying illustration the Gravenstein is designated by the figure 1. This exhibit contained the only Gravenstein in the entire show, and it was overlooked by the multitudes of spectators, few of whom knew of its value and good qualities. Its qualities are those of the Pilgrim fathers, solid, substantial, with the flavor that once enjoyed is never forgotten. It is noted also for its size and its good looks, and above all for its extraordinary keeping qualities, partaking of the rock-ribbed character of the New England hills, where it is grown more largely than in any other portion of the United States.

The Gravenstein is an apt exemplification of the immutable law of nature that you cannot get something for nothing. The orchardist cannot plant a Gravenstein tree and expect to enjoy its splendid fruit in anything like the usual time in which a western orchard comes into bearing. The Gravenstein trees from which Mr. True's selections were made were planted twenty-five years ago, and the 1909 product was really their first crop. The sturdy nature of the tree delays the beginning of its productive period under favorable circumstances of soil and climate until it has reached the mature age of twenty years or more. Then, if the conditions are right and the proper protection given, it will yield its splendid fruit for another period of from fifty to seventy-five years. The Gravenstein is probably the best "keeper" of the higher class apple family. Splendid perfect specimens have been preserved in the New England cellars until the period of ripening had again returned, and this without cold storage or other saving methods. What may be done with the Gravenstein in the middle west and in the great fruit districts of the far west is an unknown problem. It undoubtedly presents opportunities to the western orchardist that may result in adding new and valuable commercial qualities to it. It may be made to partake of some of the vigor and hurry of western enterprise and lose part of its phlegmatic nature while retaining all of its other good qualities. What would it be under the forcing processes of Idaho, Washington and Colorado? It might not live under the tremendous stimulus of the deep rich soil, the irrigation and eternal sunshine and be dividend earner for a hundred years, but it might be forced to begin bearing in less than half the time required under the harder conditions of New England and the short summers of Maine.

Mr. True's modest collection was one of the most attractive features of the exposition to those who passed long enough to critically examine it, for it comprised all of the hard staple apples that have been grown in New England for the last hundred years. It was perfectly proper that he should receive a bunch of ribbons, with many firsts and seconds.

We have a remedy for hair troubles that cannot be surpassed. It has a record of growing hair and curing baldness in 93 out of 100 cases where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time. It will even grow hair on bald heads if the
